French electro-rock twosome-turned-foursome Black Strobe will release their debut full-length, Burn Your Own Church, via Playlouder on June 5. Paul Epworth (Bloc Party, Futureheads, Maxïmo Park) produced the album, and Alan Moulder (U2, Nine Inch Nails, Marilyn Manson) did the mixing.

In addition to the opening title track (in Norwegian), Church includes previous single "Shining Bright Star" and "I'm a Man", a Bo Diddley cover that will see release as a single on June 4 in 7", 12", and download formats. All versions of the "I'm a Man" single except for the 7" will include Audion's "Donation Mix" of the track as one of the B-sides.

The Strobe also have a month-and-a-half-long run of tour dates starting in mid-June, including a pair of DJ sets by frontman Arnaud Rebotini. The tour begins June 14 in London.
